EXCEPTIONS FOR ELECTORS

Electors may take papers or other aids into the voting booth to refresh their memory and assist in expediting the voting process provided such use does not appear to be part of a concerted effort by any individual or group to subvert the normal election process. According to 104.19(1)(a), it is unlawful for any person casting a ballot to use stickers or rubber stamps or to carry into a voting booth any mechanical device, paper or memorandum which might be used to affect adversely the normal voting election process.
